OLD PANAMA PRISON AT CRYSTAL MONDAY

Did you ever visit one of the old prisons in Panama? Grim, grey walls of stone, and chains and leg irons were plentiful before Uncle Sam assumed control of the Canal Zone. In "The Ne'er-Do-Well," the interior of one of these old-time Panama prisons is shown. Kirk Anthony, the "ne'er-do-well," following an exciting battle with the police is thrown into a Panama dungeon, where he is persecuted by the "G-men." The interiors of many quaint homes, interesting work along the Panama canal, and beautiful tropical scenery abound in this Sellig play. Rex Beach wrote the story. "The Ne'er-Do-Well" which will be presented at the Crystal theater for the entire week of June 12 to 18 with daily matinees.

ART SHOP OFFERINGS FOR THE SUMMER TIME

Before leaving for the summer vacation it will pay to look in at the Art Shop, on Fourth street opposite the postoffice, at some of the real values that are being offered the public. Among the specially attractive offerings are dresser, scarf, card-table covers, pillow cases, porch pillow tops, children's dresses ready made, combination suits, gowns, corset covers, towel centers, luncheon sets, table runners and a variety of pretty things for the baby.

LITTLE MARY MINTER NOW AT LYRIC THEATER

Little Mary Miles Minter, the "flower of the screen," will be seen in the stellar role of "Lovely Mary," a five-part Metro wonderplay, which will be presented here at the Lyric theater today and tomorrow.

Miss Minter will have a strong supporting cast, including Thomas J. Carrigan, her new leading man; Ferd. Tidmarsh, Frank de Vernon, Russell Simpson, Schuyler Leish, Myra Brooks and Harry Blackmore. "Lovely Mary" is a story of the southland, with a beautiful love story in a novel setting and background. There are scores of excellent photographs made in the picturesque locales of Florida. Many historic buildings and locations are seen in the production, besides the state prison camps around which the story was written.

Miss Minter has never had a better role in her long career on the speaking stage or screen. It is a typical Minter part, and gives her an opportunity to display to the full, her youthful and fascinating charms together with her supreme dramatic ability. She was last seen on the Metro program in "Dimples," "Smmy of Storms' Nest," "Always in the Way" and "Barbara Franchise."

THEDA BARA IN 'SAPHO' AT PASTIME

Theda Bara, the screen's most popular actress, will be seen in one of the strongest pictures of the year entitled "Sapho," which is adapted from the well-known book of that name by "Daudet."

This picture broke all records for attendance in New York City, Toledo, Ohio, and Cleveland. A short synopsis of the play follows. The dawn was breaking over New York as Coudal (Warner Oland), a sculptor, and some of his brother artists were finishing their rounds of New York cafes.

Laura Gubbins (Theda Bara), a little product of the underworld, was leading a hungry dog (taunting him), when the last of her half-drunk father (Frank Norcross) came full upon her shoulders. He passes on to the garret where his wife lay dying. Laura, in a spirit of retaliation, beats up his horse with a stick and sends him galloping away.

Coudal and his friends come upon the driverless car and in drunken good humor mount the cab and come tearing down the streets. Gubbins, from his window, threatens Laura with his whip and comes tearing down the stairs to her. She is terrified, and hides in an old ash barrel as Coudal and his friends come dashing through the scene.

The father protests with Coudal, who apologizes, and, turning, he sees his daughter Laura creeping from the lid of the ash barrel. One second and his whip is raised to strike her. Coudal interposes and buys the girl—Gubbins following, as if half-regretting, in drunken protestation.

The men carry the girl to the studio of Coudal and there draw lots for her possession. She falls to Coudal. Morning comes and finds Laura a woman, hating Coudal and his kind. She becomes his model, and from her he models his greatest work, "Sapho." Through this his fame spreads far and wide—and fame brings him friends.

At the Pastime theater today and tomorrow.

Social dance given by the Rebekahs June 13, in I. O. O. F. hall; refreshments. Admission 50c, extra ladies 25c.
